

Print

Cut

Laminate the bandages & box

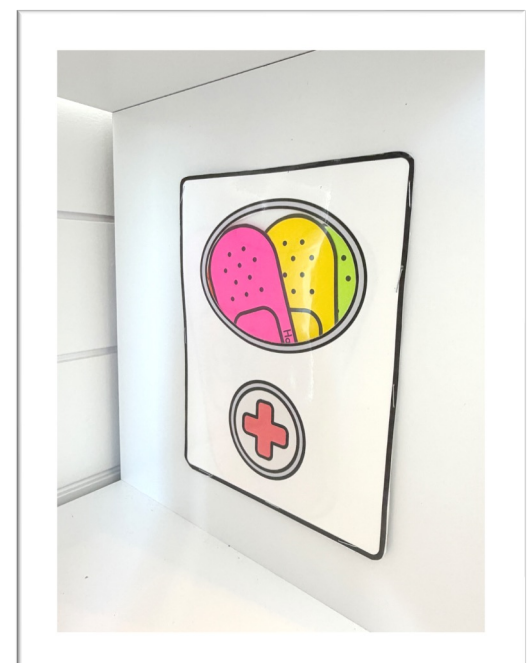

Send a bandage & note home with each student

Set up your bandage mailbox

Choose a place to mount it

Letter Home

Handle with Care

Big feelings are a natural part of growing up, and sometimes children arrive at school carrying a little more than usual.

If your child has had a difficult weekend, night, or morning, simply message me “Handle with Care”, or send your child’s bandage back to school, as a visual cue that they may need a little extra time, patience, understanding, or space throughout the day.

You are not expected to share any details.

We’re all human, and some days are harder than others. My goal is to meet your child where they are and to help make their mental load feel a little lighter.

Handle with Care ♥♥♥

Big feelings are a natural part of growing up, and sometimes children arrive at school carrying a little more than usual.

If your child has had a difficult weekend, night, or morning, simply message me “Handle with Care”, or send your child’s bandage back to school, as a visual cue that they may need a little extra time, patience, understanding, or space throughout the day.

You are not expected to share any details.

We’re all human, and some days are harder than others. My goal is to meet your child where they are and to help make their mental load feel a little lighter.

Handle with Care ♥♥♥

Big feelings are a natural part of growing up, and sometimes children arrive at school carrying a little more than usual.

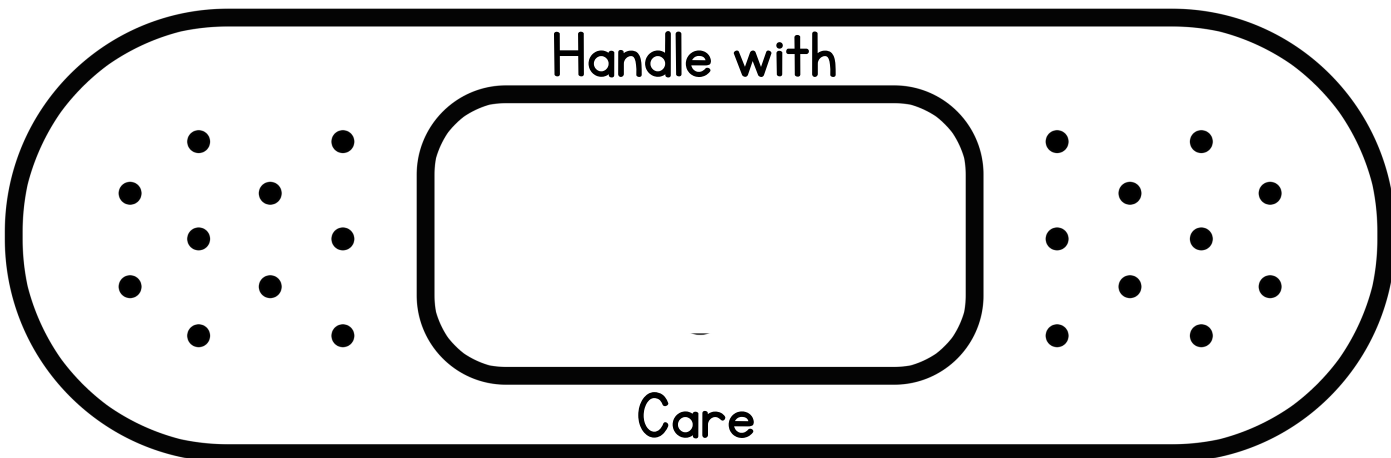

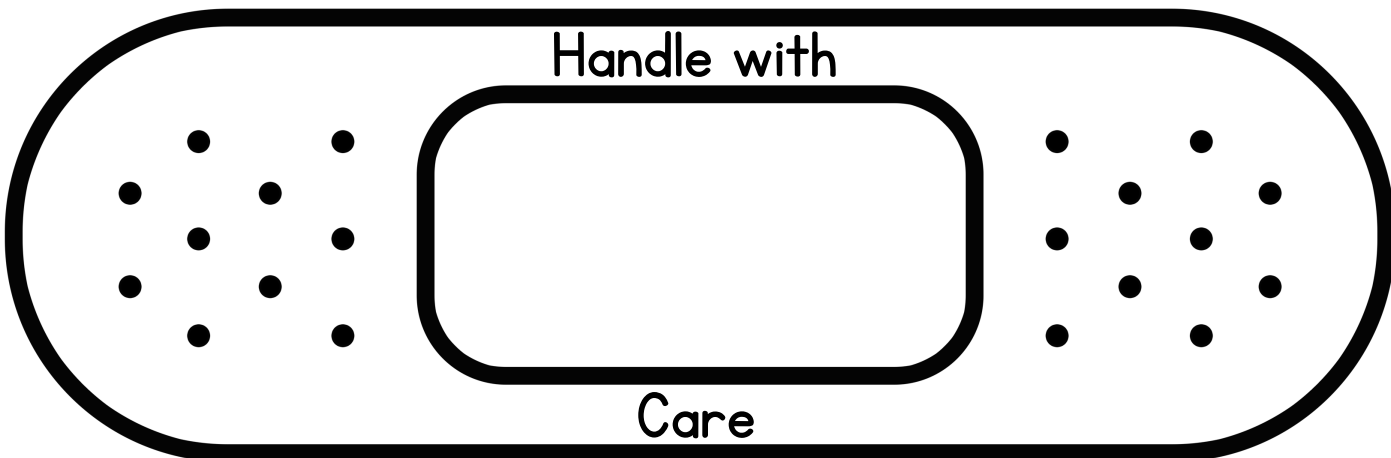

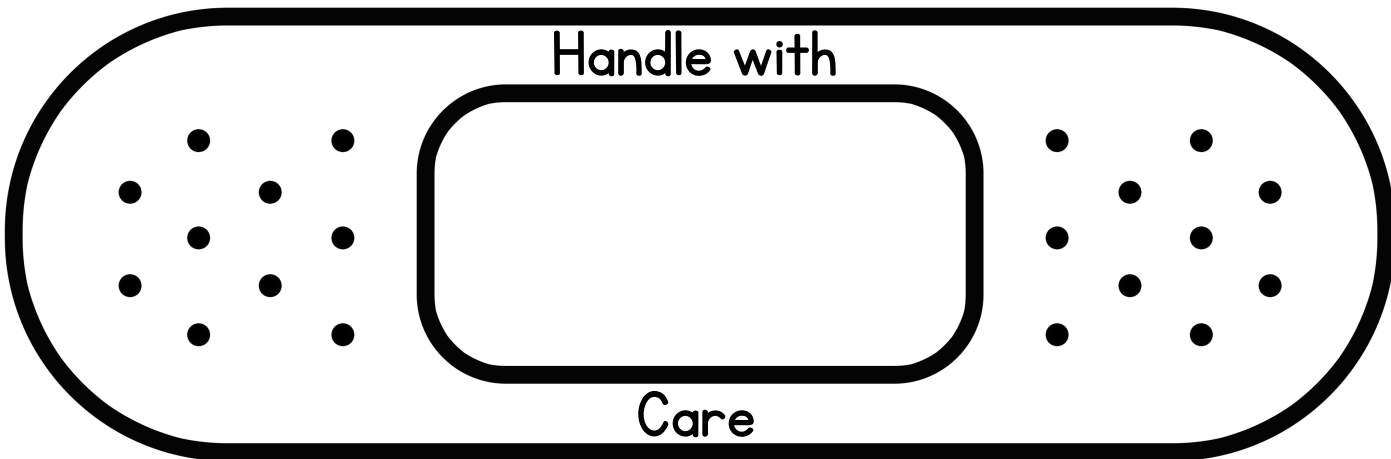

If your child has had a difficult weekend, night, or morning, simply message me “Handle with Care”, or send your child’s bandage back to school, as a visual cue that they may need a little extra time, patience, understanding, or space throughout the day.

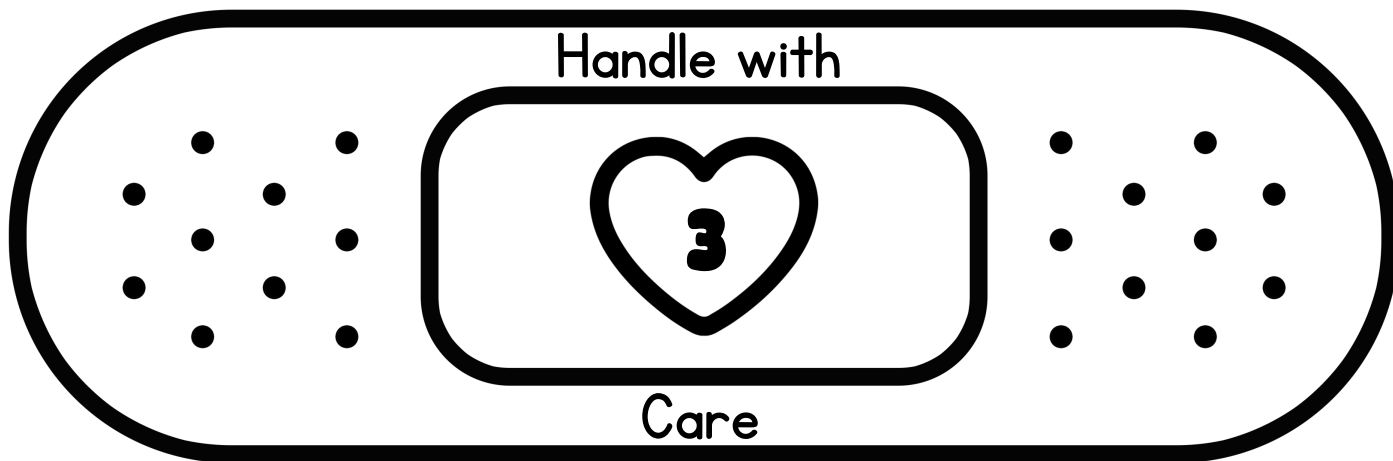

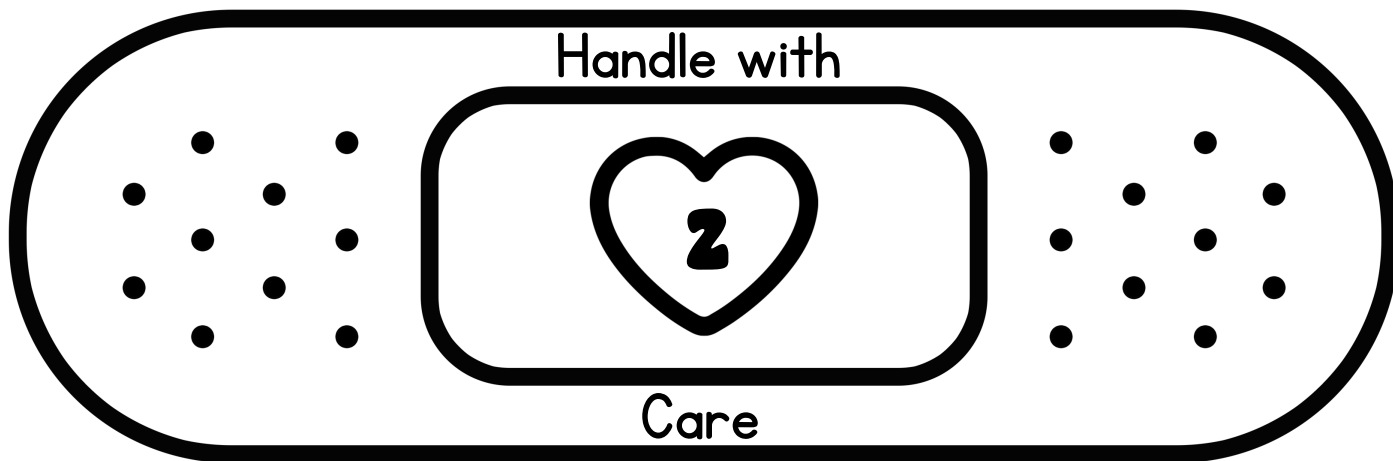

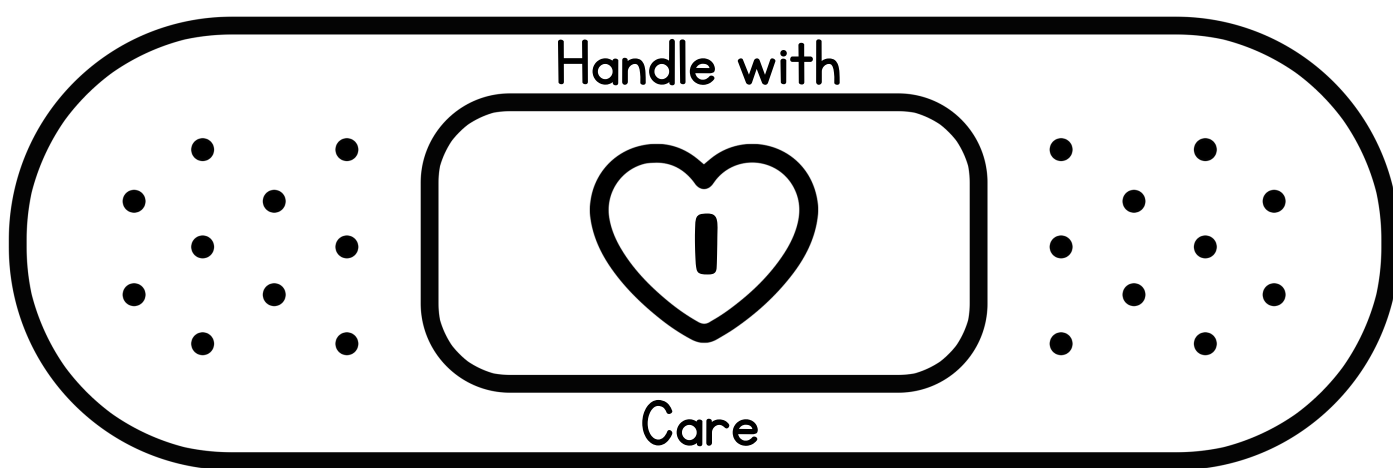

You are not expected to share any details.

We’re all human, and some days are harder than others. My goal is to meet your child where they are and to help make their mental load feel a little lighter.

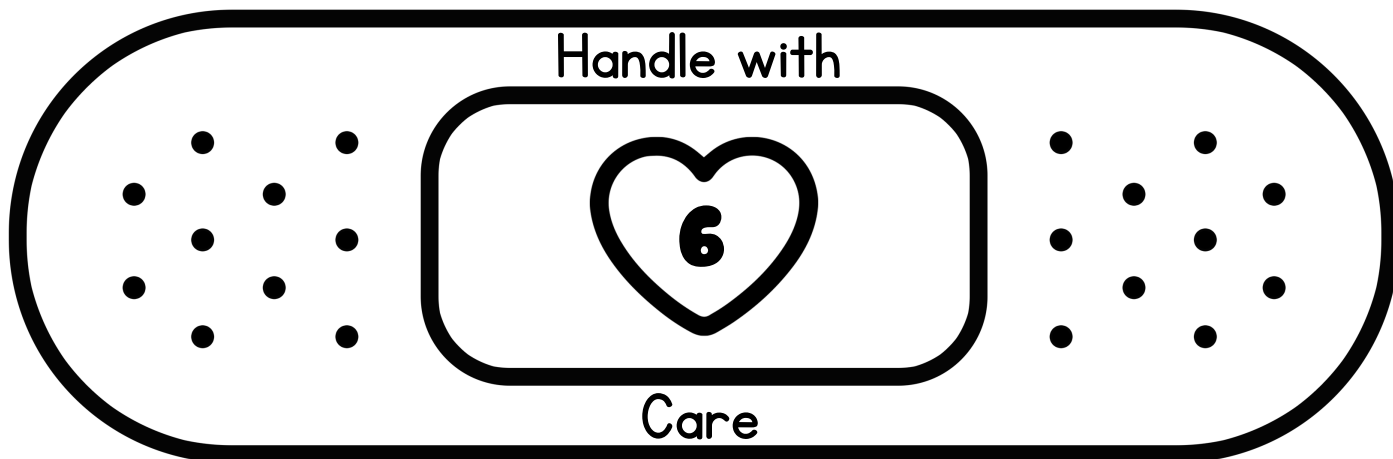

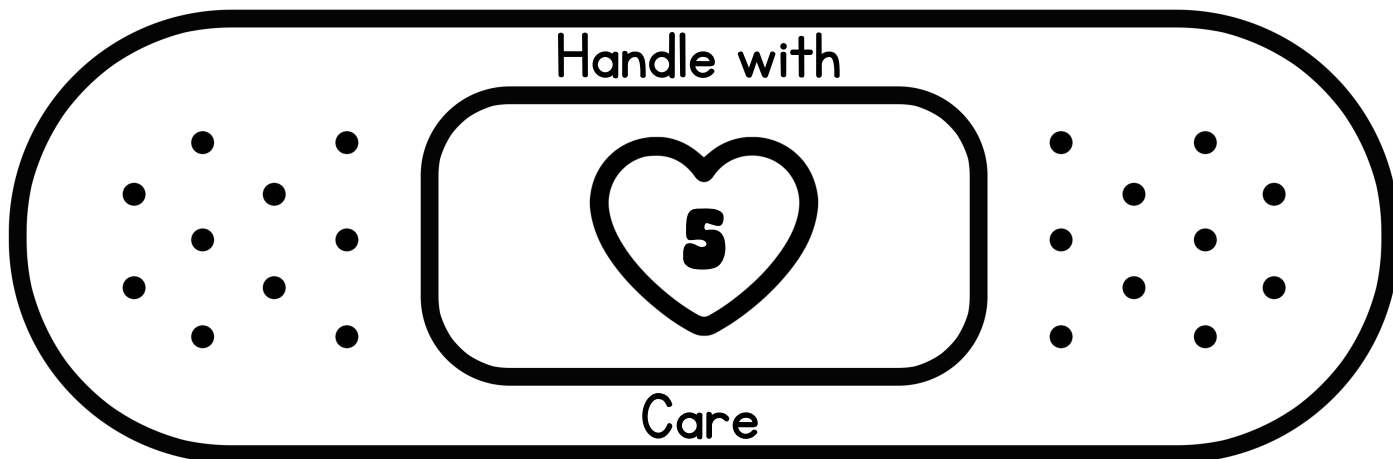

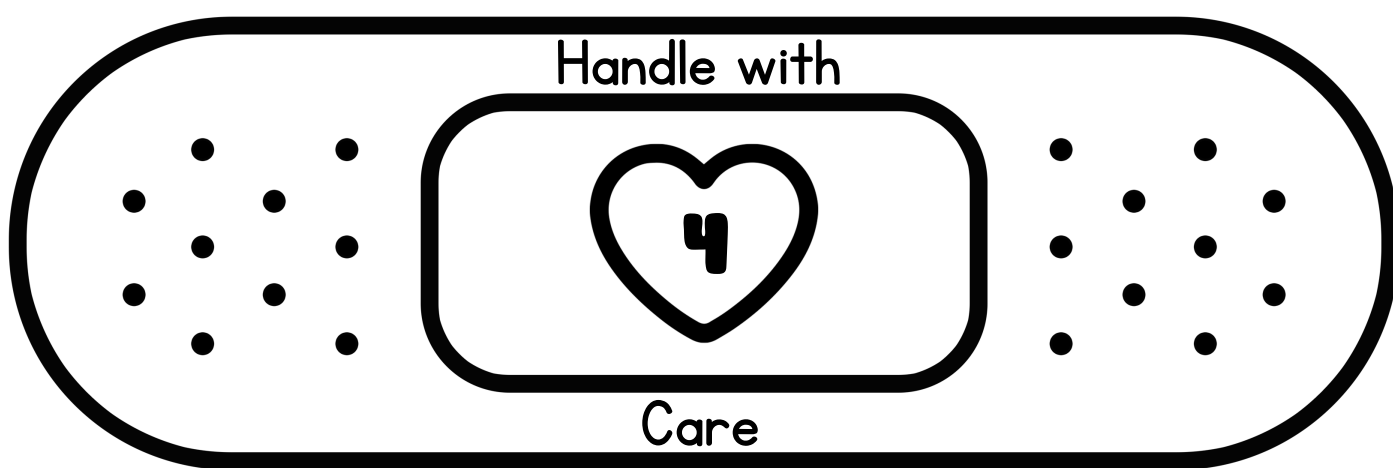

In this version, you can write the student name in the middle of the bandage.

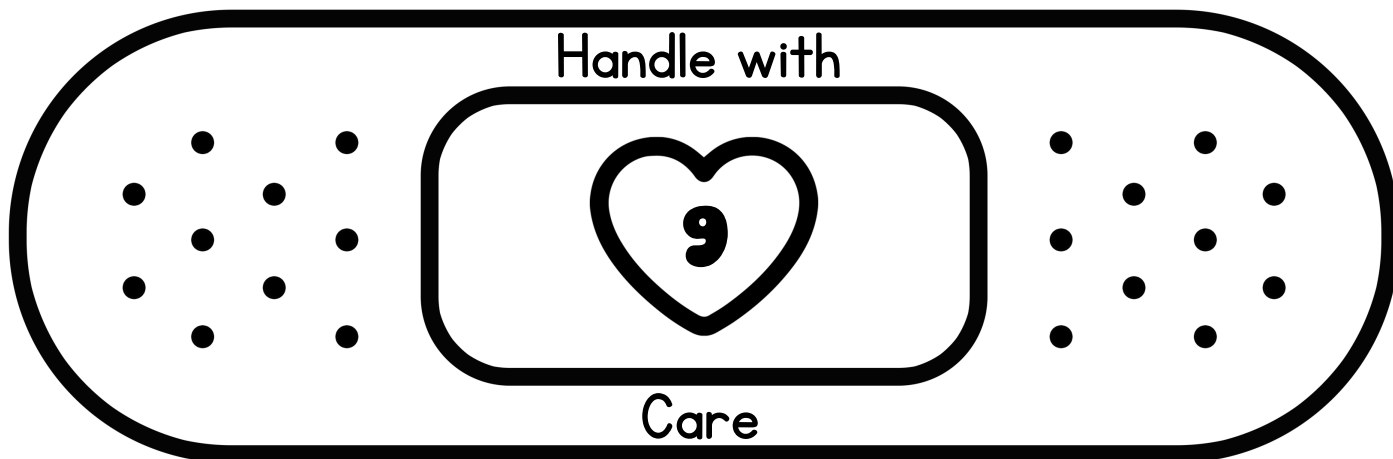

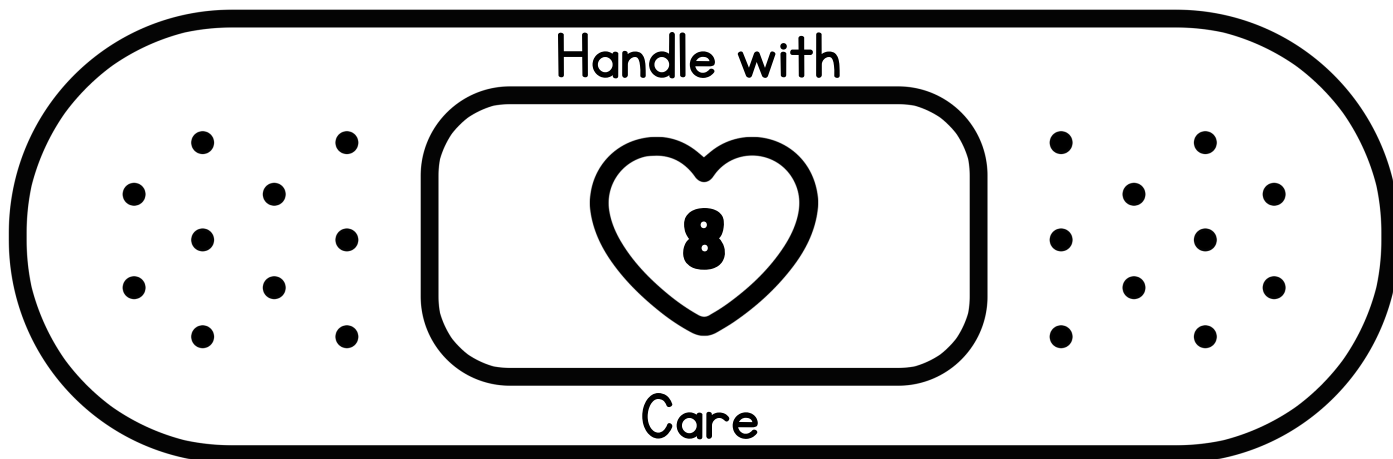

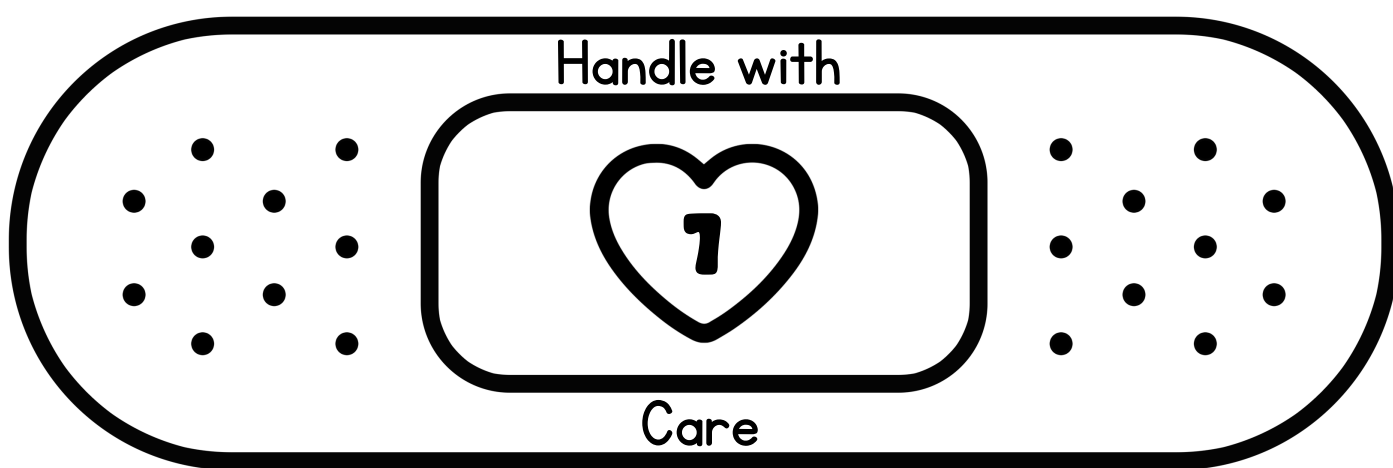

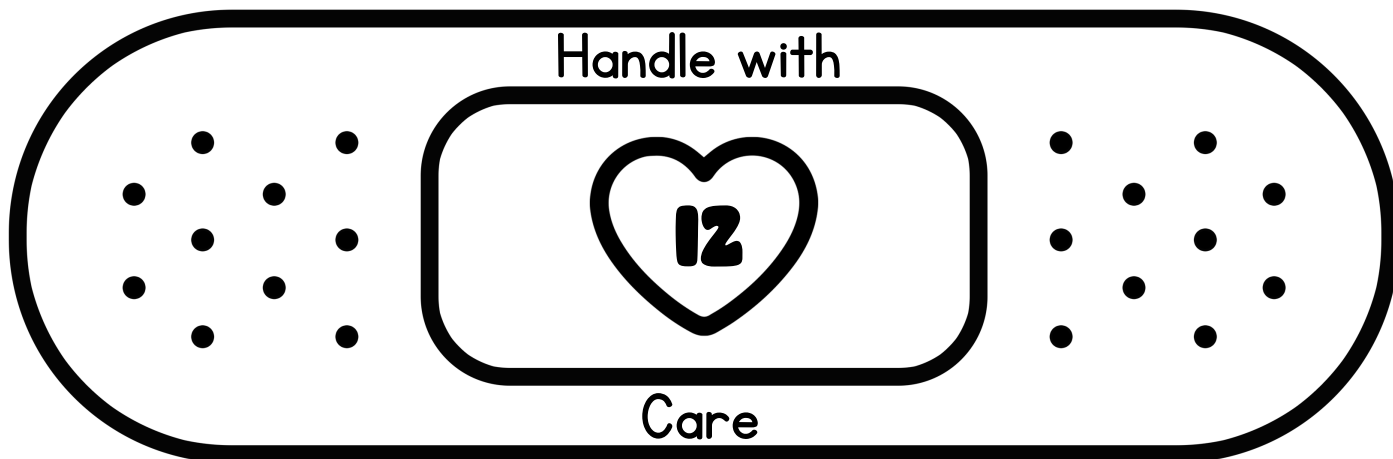

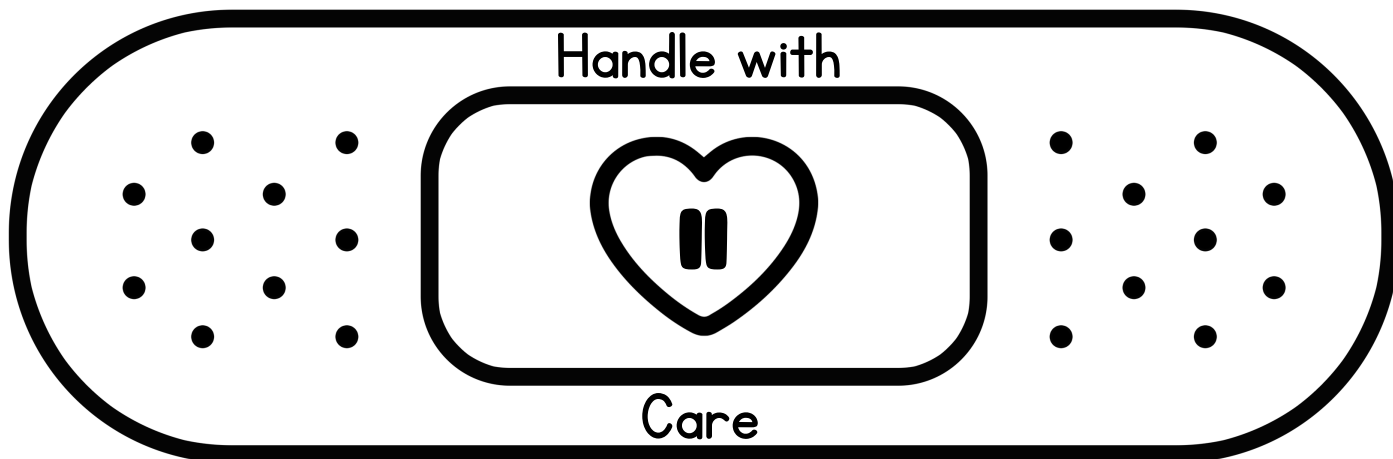

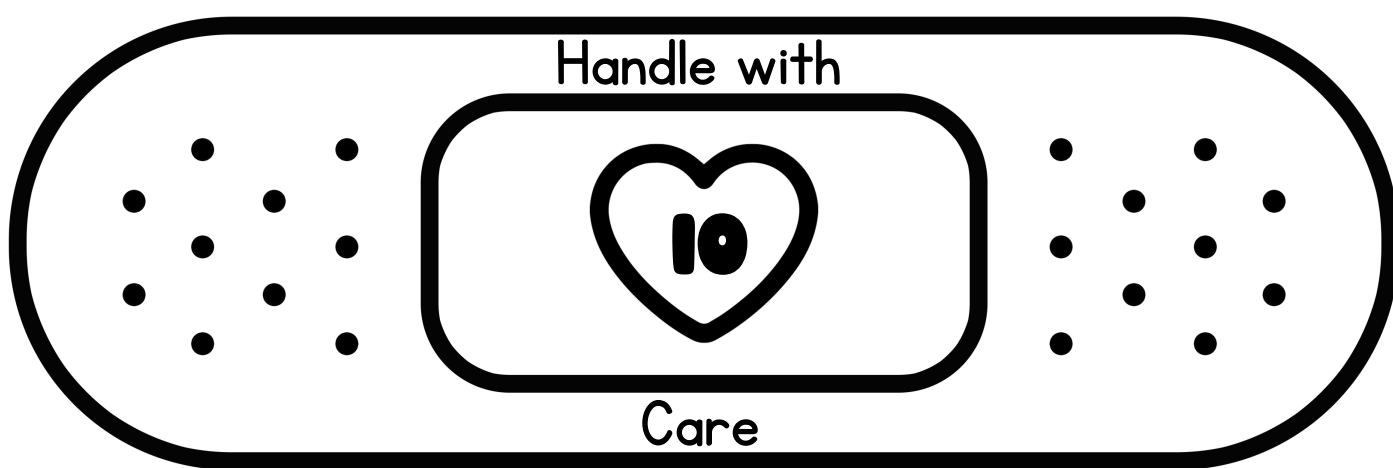

In this version, students will each be assigned a number.

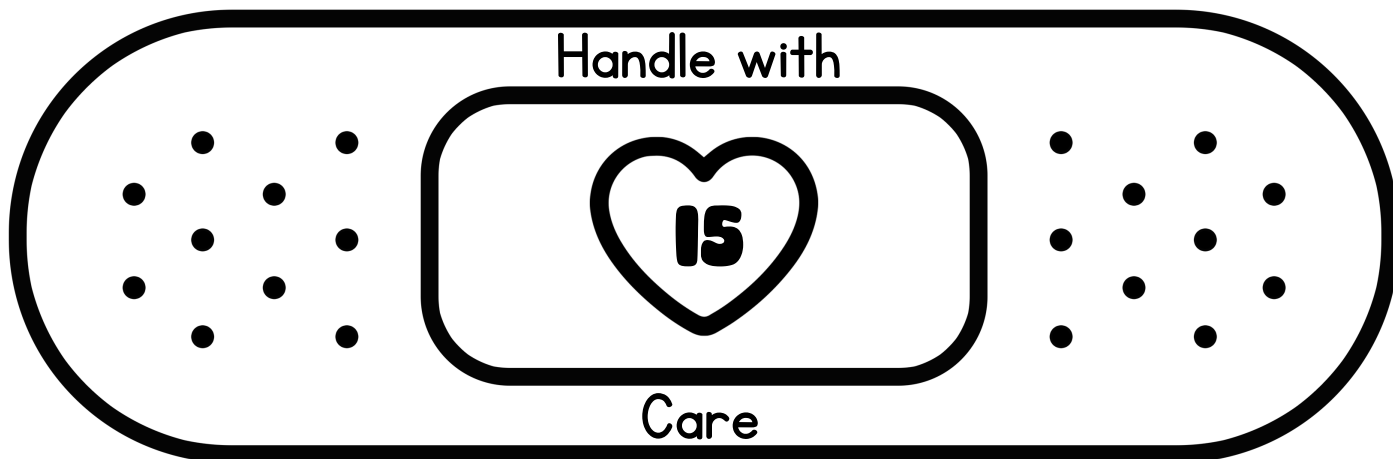

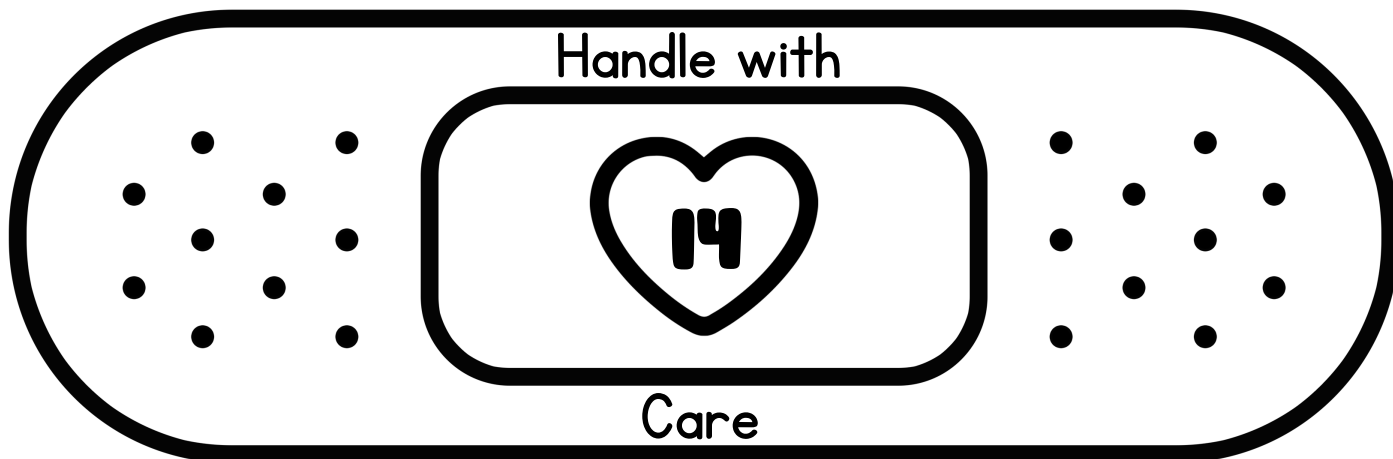

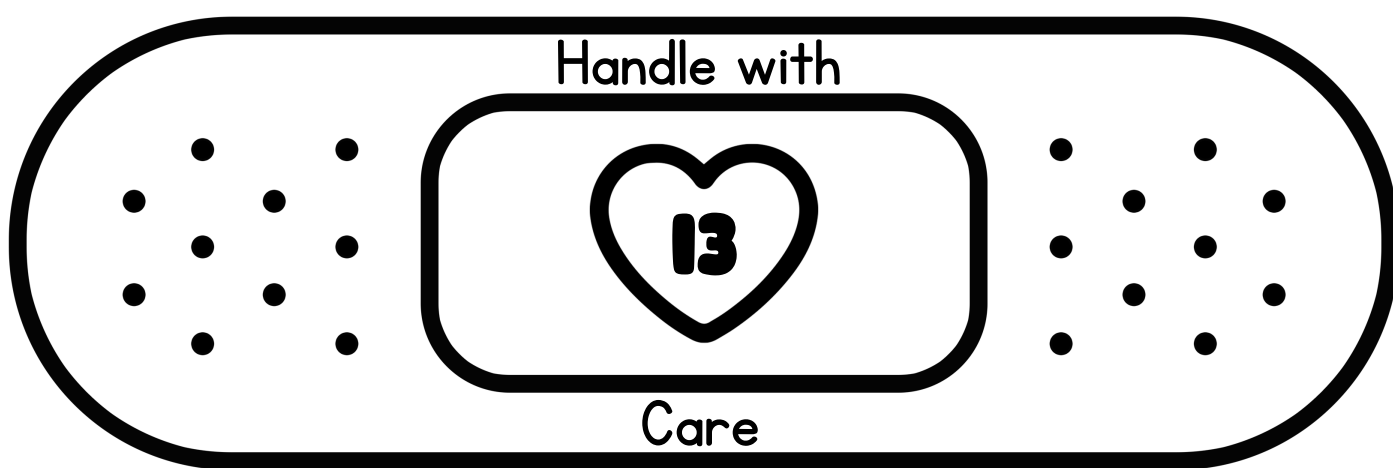

In this version, students will each have received a number.

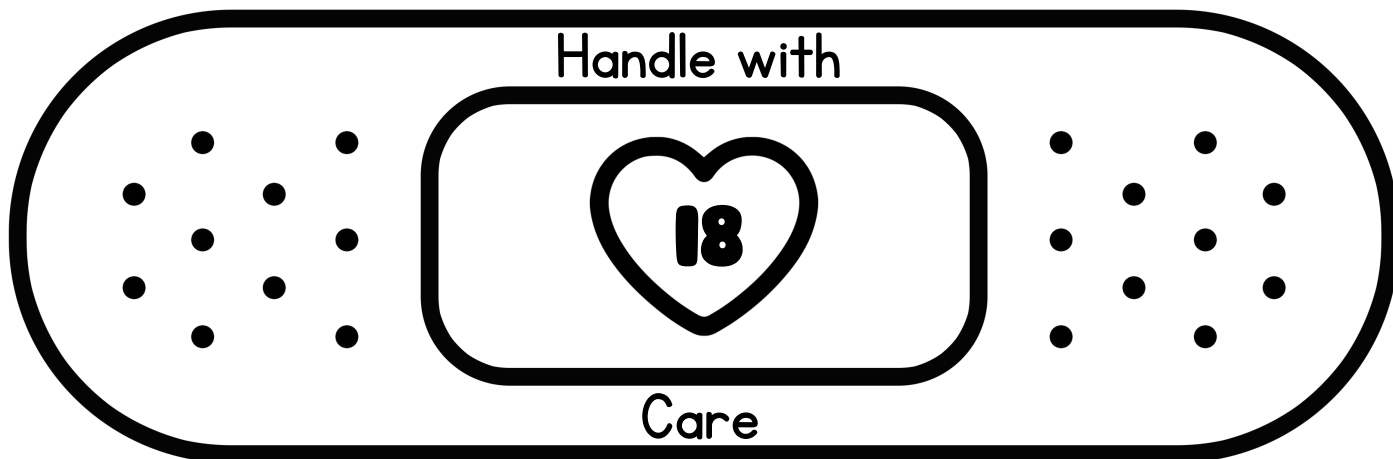

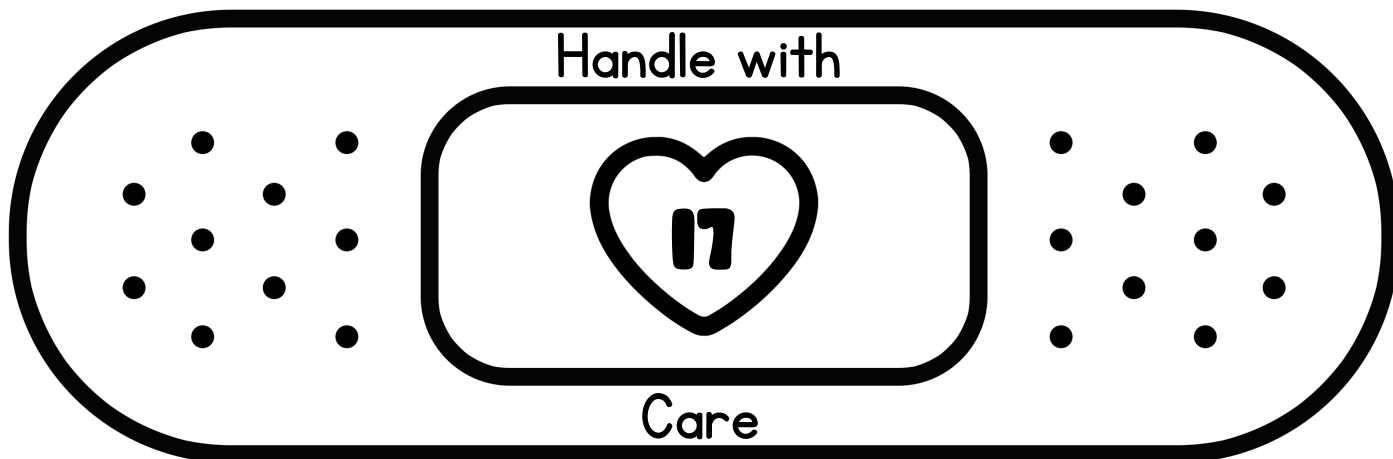

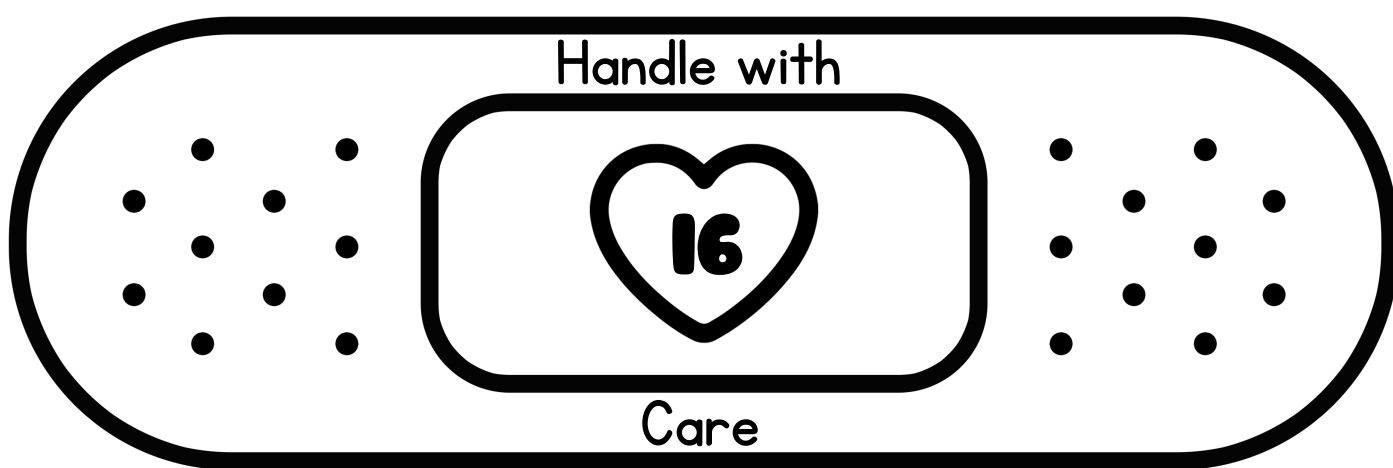

In this version, students will each have received a number.

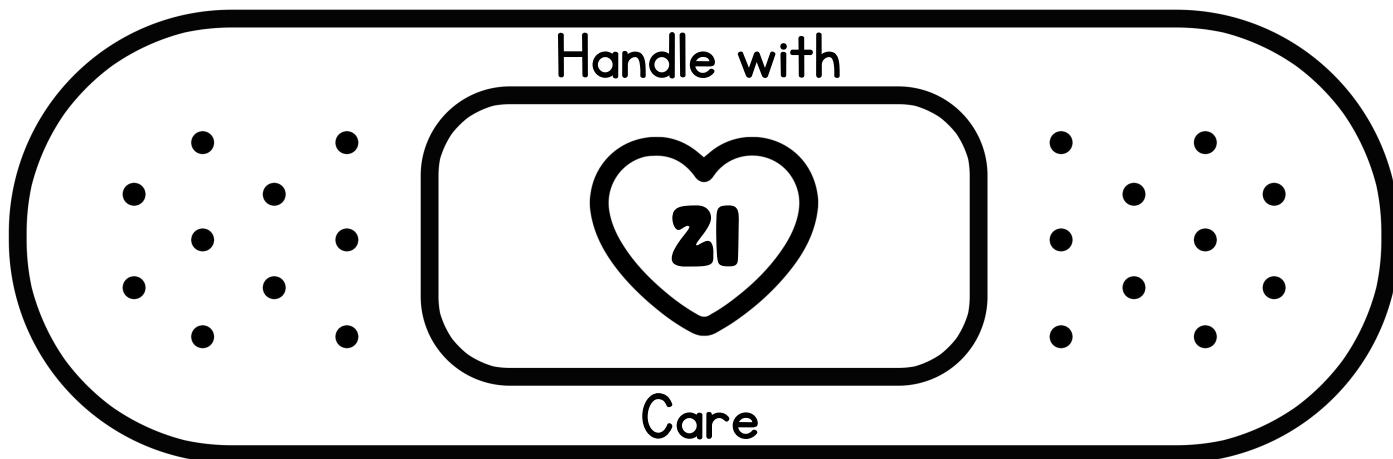

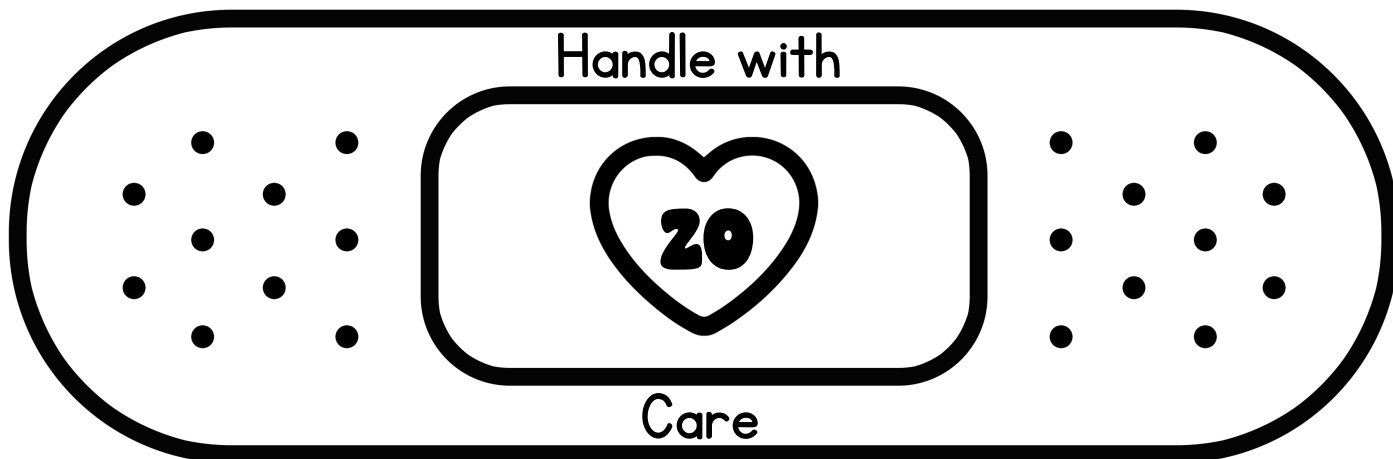

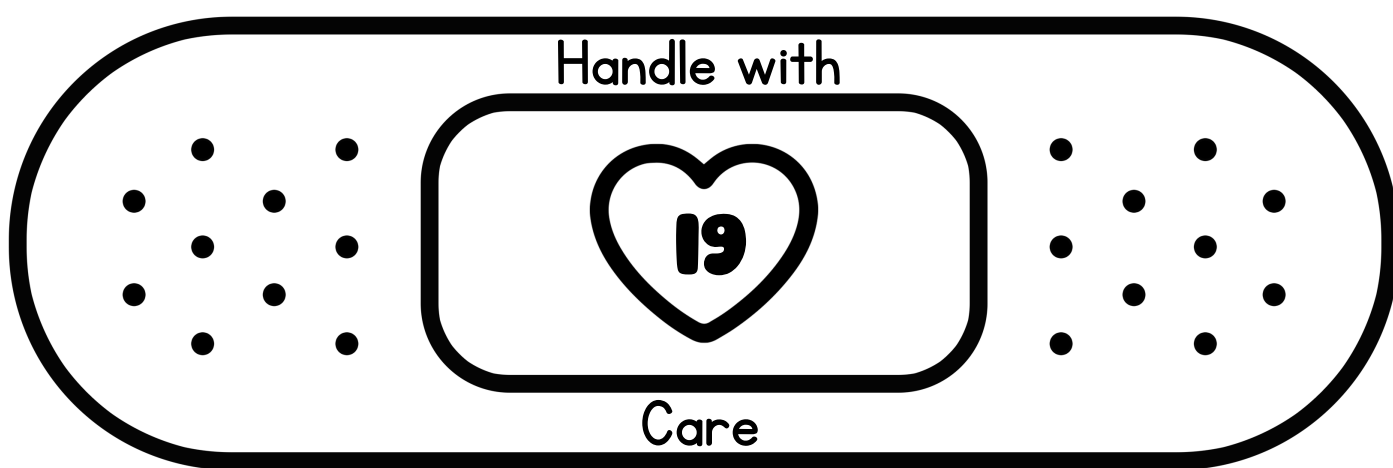

In this version, students will each have received a number.

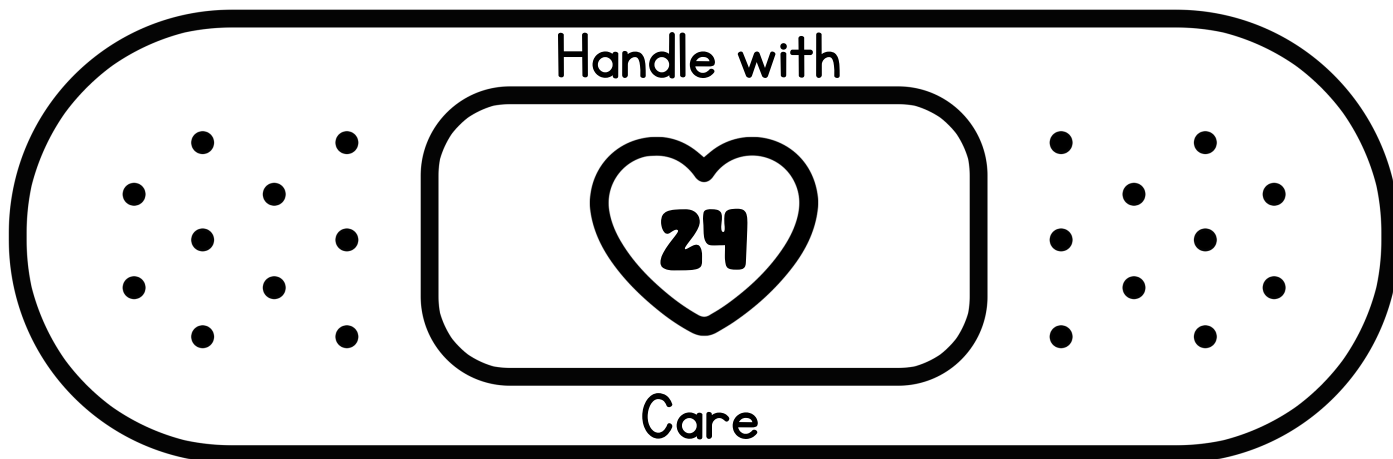

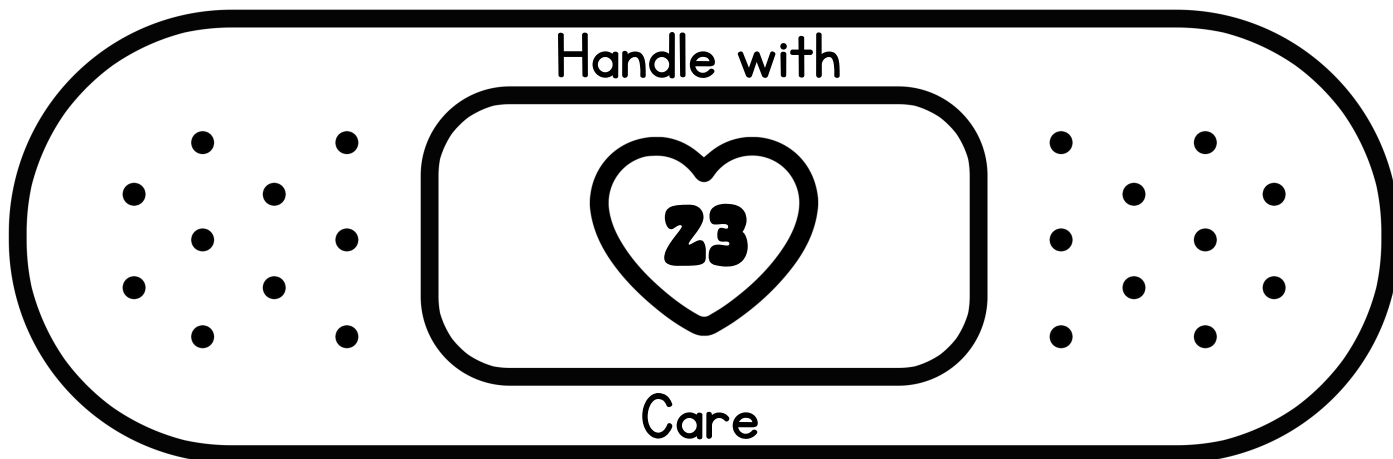

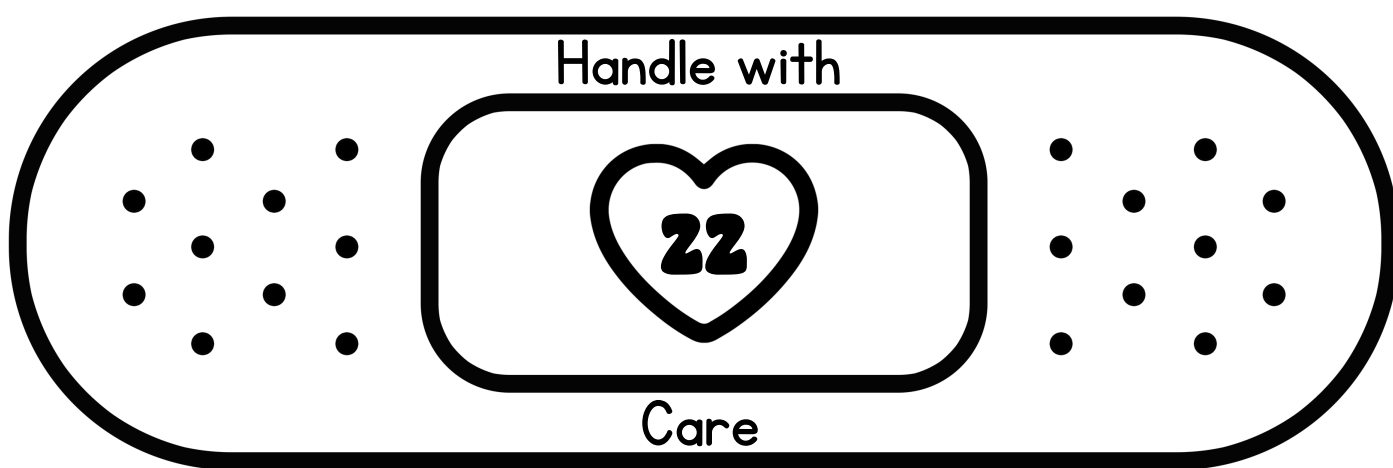

In this version, students will each have received a number.

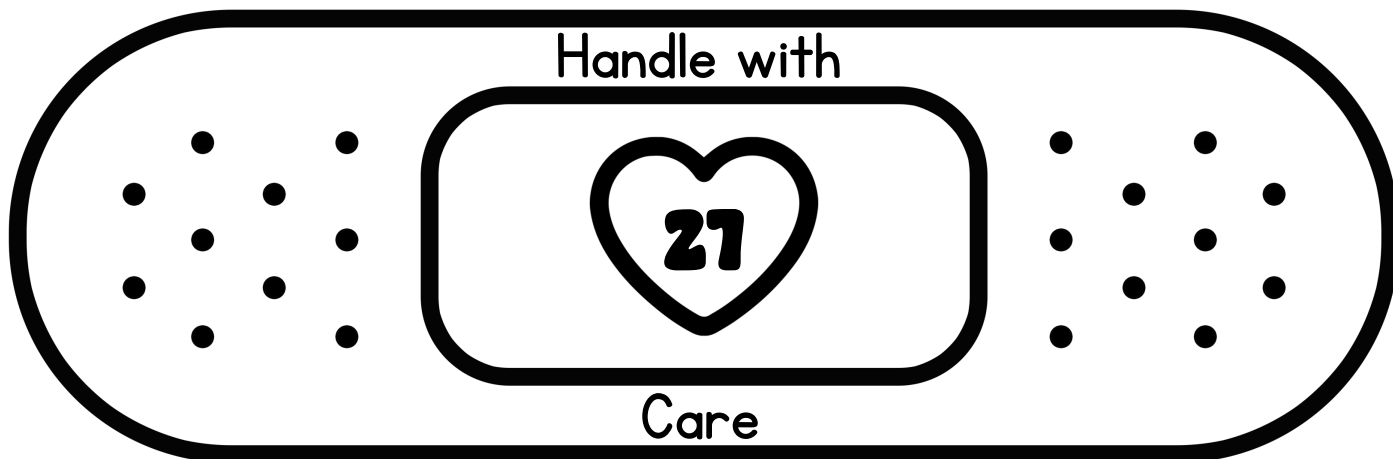

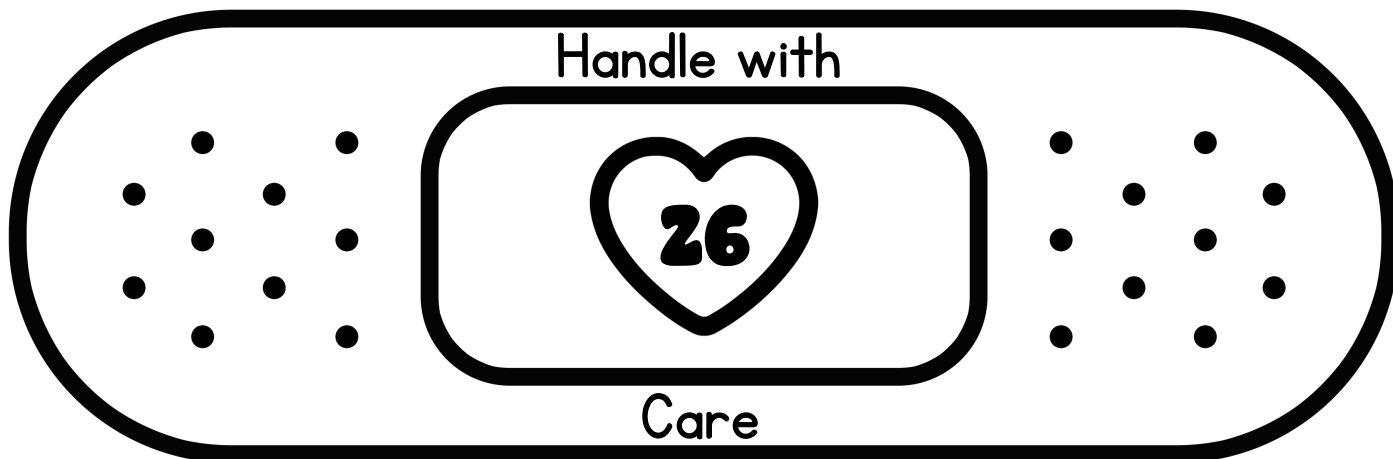

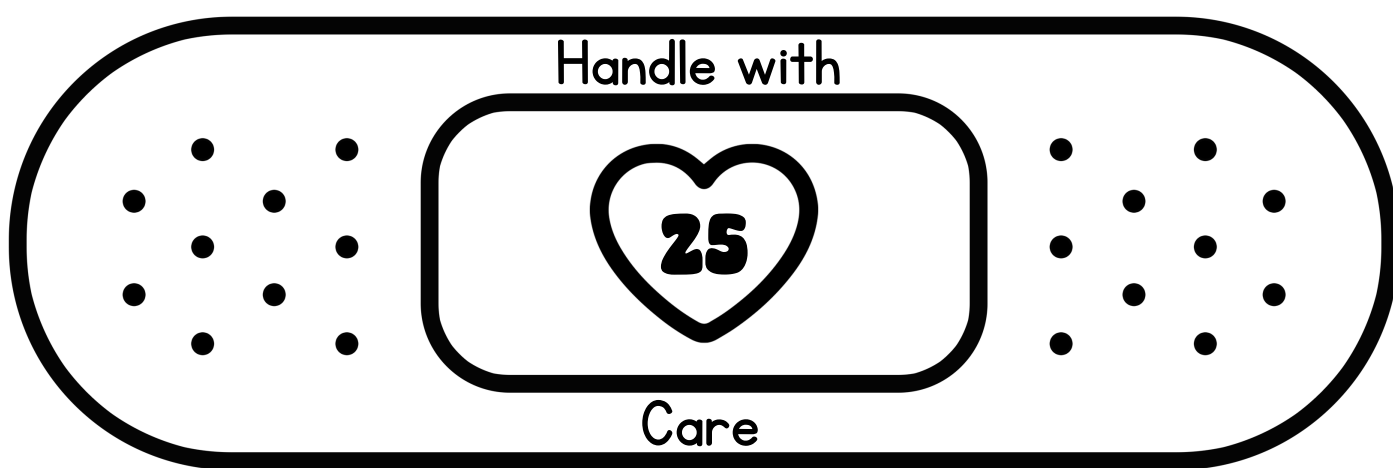

In this version, students will each have received a number.

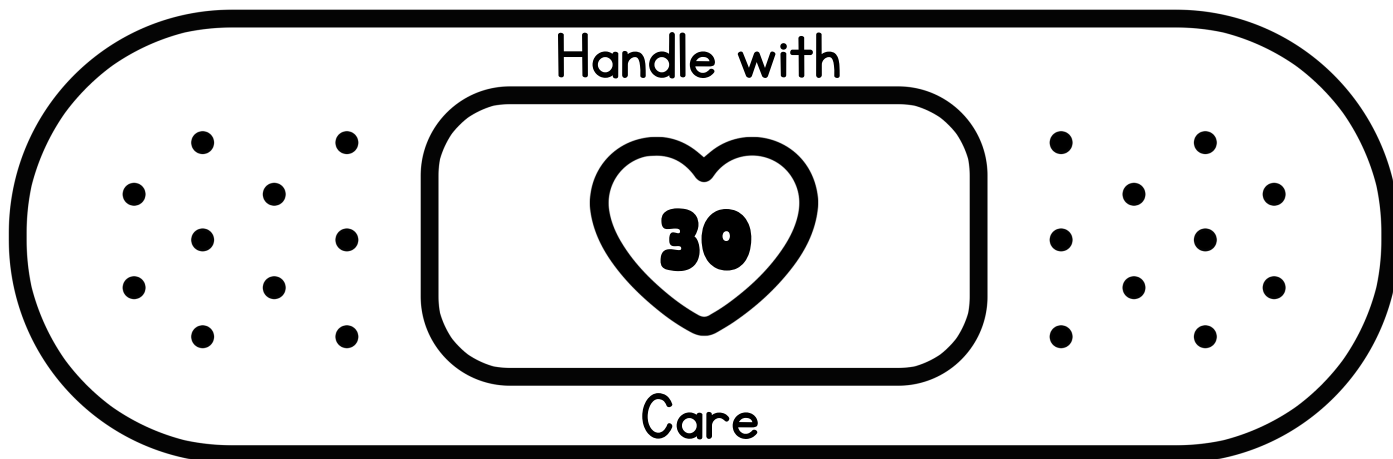

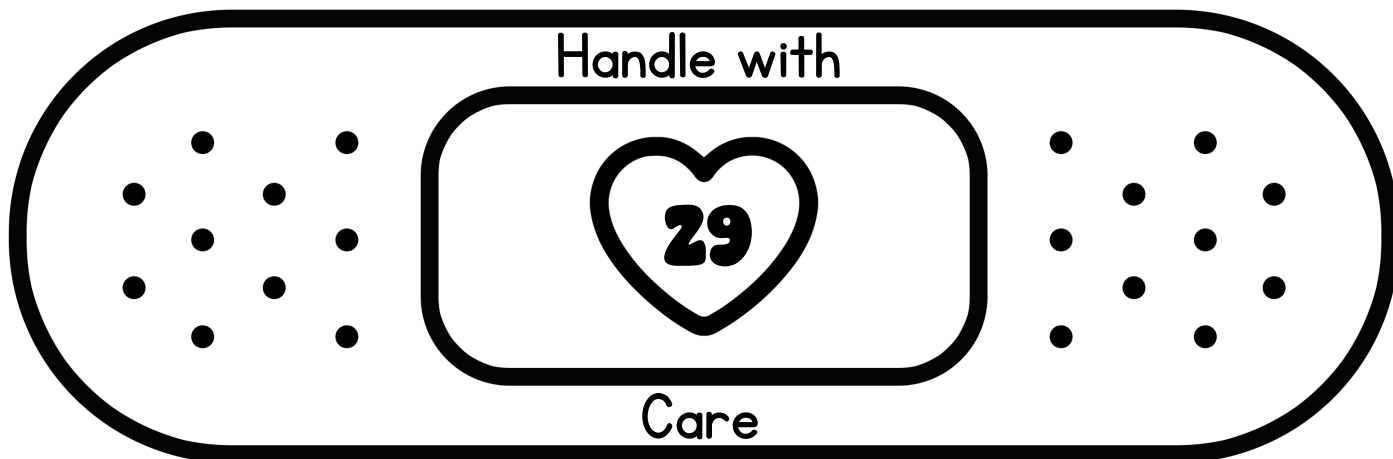

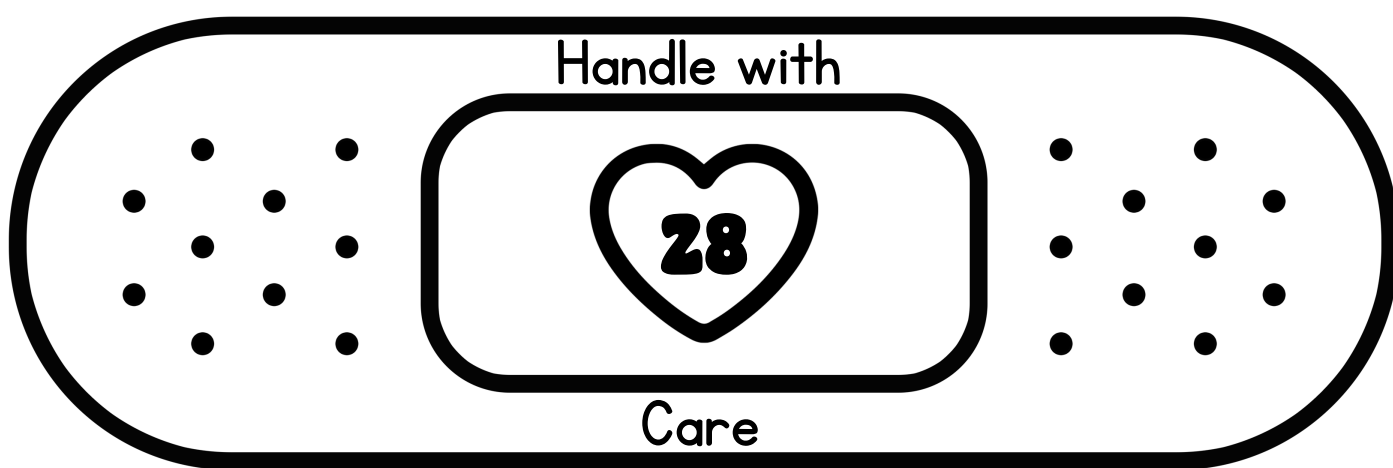

In this version, students will each have received a number.

In this version, students will each have received a number.

In this version, students will each have received a number.

In this version, students will each have received a number.

HANDLE WITH CARE

Front of the bandage mailbox (BW)

HANDLE WITH CARE

Front of the bandage mailbox (Colored)

Back of the bandage mailbox

Staple or use hot glue to adhere the bottom 3 outer edges to create a pocket.

